Here's what I learned about the Millennials from the conferences I attended:

1. They want to have a voice.
2. They want to make an impact.
3. Their work needs to be meaningful.
4. They want to contribute and share their ideas.

By now, you should have heard about the Dodd-Frank Act and its authorized creation of the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau. This act represents the most comprehensive financial regulatory reform measures taken since the Great Depression and is having, and will continue to have, a tremendous impact on the role of an escrow agent and how business is conducted.

Now is the time to become involved in order to insure the future and sustainability of our industry, so I challenge all of the Millennial escrow agents reading this post:

Do you want to have a voice? Then submit your request to be considered as an ASEA Board Member for the 2014-2015 term.

Do you want to make an impact? Then promote the ASEA and its benefits to your industry peers who are not currently members of this Association.

Do you want to contribute and share your ideas? Then volunteer to be on a committee.

Do you want work that's meaningful? If you are elected as a Board Member, or become an advocate of the ASEA, or involve yourself on a committee, I guarantee you will find meaning, satisfaction and fulfillment knowing you have a voice, you make an impact and you make a difference.

Information regarding the ASEA can be found here:

And you may certainly reach out to me or any Board Member with your questions about the ASEA.
